Gov. Horner Refers to Heavy Demands on Chicago Depositories, Which Paid Out $350,000,000 in Two Weeks.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Bank holidays prevailed today practically throughout the nation. As a result, the New York Stock Exchange and all other exchanges in the city—cotton, coffee, sugar and rubber, also suspended activities. Exchanges in other cities followed the lead of New York.

The State of New York began a two-day suspension of banking under an early morning proclamation of Gov. Lehman. Almost simultaneously a holiday was called for three days in Illinois, and two in Missouri, Pennsylvania and other states took similar action.

In only two states—Delaware and South Carolina—were there no restrictions. Gold shipment stopped.

An important effect was the stopping of gold withdrawals, both in New York and to other countries, for the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was closed. A hundred million dollars in gold left the bank in recent days for foreign account, and an unestimated amount had been withdrawn by citizens of the United States.

Gov. Lehman issued the New York proclamation after a conference with members of the Clearing House Committee, including William W. Aldrich, president of the National Bank, largest commercial bank in the world; James B. Connelley, chairman of the board of the National City Bank; and Joseph A. Broderick, State Superintendent of Banks.

Heavy Gold Withdrawals. Gov. Lehman abandoned a trip to the inauguration at Washington to preside over the conference. Heavy currency withdrawals and the drain of gold for foreign account had prompted the meeting.

It followed a day in which demands on local banks increased. The loss of gold amounted to $116,000, the largest amount of the kind ever had to be made up in a single day. The demand for gold continued unabated, currency circulation appeared to be further enlarged, and money market stiffened, compelling its readjustment to the increase from two and one-half to three and one-half per cent in the discount rate of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York.

The position of the large Wall Street banks was described as unsatisfactory by leading bankers, who pointed with Gov. Lehman in attributing the necessity for the holiday to the hysteria and the burden caused by the banking situation in other sections of the country. In many of these other districts, in turn, leading bankers described the situation as due to pressure from neighboring areas.

Condition of Savings Banks. Bankers said that savings banks were in excellent condition, with the highest type of investments, but that these could not be converted into cash sufficient to meet the demands of a stampede about causing great harm by closing the holdings.

At most of the local banks yesterday, normal business was done, but at some there was unusual activity, some depositors closing out their accounts.

"Until early this morning it was my hope," Lehman said in his proclamation, "that it would not be necessary to interrupt the continuous operation of the banking system of New York State."

The spread of hysteria and the restrictions imposed upon the bank-

HOTELS IN WASHINGTON ARE TAKING NO CHECKS ON OUT-OF-TOWN BANKS

WASHINGTON, March 4.—WITH the capital crowded with visitors from all parts of the country for the inauguration, the Washington Hotel Association decided yesterday that its members would accept no checks drawn on out-of-town banks.

The resolution on the subject, posted at the desks in the face of all who registered, said: "Members find it necessary that due to unsettled banking conditions throughout the country that checks on out-of-town banks cannot be accepted."

The notice recommended that guests arrange to have funds sent to them from their homes.

GOVERNOR PARK CALLS FOR CLOSING BANKS TWO DAYS

Suspension Declared After Situation Becomes Serious at Kansas City and Neighboring States Act.

Banks throughout Missouri were closed today and will remain closed Monday in accordance with the two-day bank holiday declared by Gov. Park shortly after 1 o'clock this morning.

Similar action was taken during the night by Governors of several other states. To relieve the banking crisis a bill was prepared for introduction in the State Senate today, transferring broad powers on the Governor and Finance Commissioner. Under its terms the State could authorize clearing house scrip which would be issued and circulated as currency.

The St. Louis Stock Exchange and Merchants' Exchange were closed today by their directors and will remain closed for the duration of the holiday. Deliveries through the Stock Exchange Clearing House were suspended pending action by the Governing Committee of the exchange.

The proposed banking bill was taken to Jefferson City by Samuel A. Mitchell of the St. Louis law firm, Thompson, Mitchell, Thompson & Young. Under its provisions, banks with sound but not immediately liquid assets would deposit them with Clearing House Association as collateral for scrip or "John Doe" checks. The banks would issue this scrip to depositors who wished to make withdrawals.

Hopes for Quick Passage. Gov. Park said those sponsoring the bill hoped to have it passed today, but under the constitution, he pointed out, that could not be done in less than five days.

Pending passage of the bill, it was said in informed quarters, the Governor would be asked to extend the banking holiday, or, if that is not done, most banks likely will place restrictions on withdrawals when they reopen.

Scrip such as that now proposed was issued by St. Louis banks and used for a time during 1907. Mitchell conferred on the measure this morning with Gov. Park, Finance Commissioner Moberly and Attorney-General McKittick. McKittick is drafting a bill which would give wide discretionary powers to the Finance Commissioner, and another bank relief bill, Gov. Park said, will be offered by the Kansas City Clearing House. He was not familiar with its provisions.

$500,000,000 Deposits Here. Doors of St. Louis banks were closed, and bare notices of the declaration of a legal holiday for today and Monday. Safety deposit boxholders, some of whom have withdrawn deposits and stored money in their boxes, were excluded as well as other customers. Deposits in St. Louis banks total nearly $500,000,000. There are in Missouri about 750 State banks, and 85 national banks.

National banks, seeking instructions on how they were to accept Gov. Park's declaration, were ad-

ROOSEVELT SWORN IN, SAYS HE WILL ASK FOR "WAR TIME POWERS" IF NEEDED TO MEET EMERGENCY

PRESIDENT IN INAUGURAL SAYS FEAR IS ONLY THING COUNTRY NEEDS TO FEAR

Declares "We Must Act and Act Quickly" and "There Must Be Provision for Adequate, But Sound Currency."

WASHINGTON, March 4.—PRESIDENT FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, in his inaugural address today, said he would call the new Congress into special session to carry out his planned attack on the financial and banking emergency, saying "we must act and act quickly," but he did not say when the session would be called. Among the policies outlined was that "there must be provision for an adequate, but sound currency."

The text of the inaugural address, as given out to the press less than an hour before the President began to speak, follows: "I am certain that my fellow Americans expect that on my induction into the Presidency I will address them with a candor and a decision which the present situation of our nation impels."

"This is pre-eminently the time to speak the truth, the whole truth, frankly and boldly. Nor need we shrink from honestly facing conditions in our country today. This great nation will endure as it has endured, will revive and will prosper. So first of all let me assert my firm belief that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself—nameless, unreasoning, unjustified terror which paralyses needed efforts to convert retreat into advance."

"In every dark hour of our national life a leadership of frankness and vigor has met with that understanding and support of the people themselves which is essential to victory. I am convinced that you will again give that support to leadership in these critical days."

"In such a spirit on my part and on yours we face our common difficulties. They concern, thank God, only material things. Values have shrunk to fantastic levels; taxes have risen; Government of all kinds is faced by serious curtailment of income; the means of exchange are frozen in the current of trade; the withered leaves of industrial enterprise lie on every side; farmers find no markets for their produce; the savings of many years in thousands of families are gone."

"More important, a host of unemployed citizens face the grim problem of existence, and an equally great number toil with little return. Only a foolish optimist can deny the dark realities of the moment."

"Yet our distress comes from no failure of substance. We are struck by no plague of locusts. Compared with the perils which our forefathers conquered because they believed and were not afraid, we have still much to be thankful for. Nature still offers her bounty and human efforts have multiplied it. Plenty is at our doorstep, but a generous use of it languishes in the very sight of the supply."

"Primarily, this is because the rulers of the exchange of mankind's goods have failed through their own stubbornness and their own incompetence, have admitted their failure and abdicated. Practices of the unscrupulous money changers stand indicted in the court of public opinion, rejected by the hearts and minds of men."

"True, they have tried, but their efforts have been cast in the pattern of an outworn tradition. Faced by failure of credit, they have proposed only the lending of more money. Stripped of the lure of profit by which to induce our people to follow their false leadership they have resorted to exhortations, pleading fearful for restored confidence. They know only the rules of a generation of self-seekers. They have no vision, and when there is no vision the people perish."

"The money changers have fled from their high seats in the temple of our civilization. We may now restore that temple to the ancient truths. The measure of the restoration lies in the extent to which we apply social values more noble than mere monetary profit."

"Happiness lies not in the mere possession of money; it lies in the joy of achievement, in the thrill of creative effort. The joy and moral stimulation of work no longer must be forgotten in the mad chase of evanescent profits. These dark days will be worth all they cost us if they teach us that our true destiny is not to be consummated in consumption."

"The task can be helped in definite efforts to raise the value of agricultural products and with this the power to purchase the output of our cities. It can be helped by preventing realistically the tragedy of the growing loss through foreclosure of our small homes and our farms. It can be helped by insistence that the Federal, state and local governments act forthwith on the demand that their cost be drastically reduced. It can be helped by the upholding of relief activities which today are often hampered, uneconomical and unequal. It can be helped by national planning for and supervision of all forms of transportation and of communications and other utilities which have a definitely

NEW PRESIDENT AND CABINET TO MEET LATE TODAY

Senate Meets and Confirms Appointments of Roosevelt's Official Family Members.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—After quick confirmation of his Cabinet today, President Roosevelt moved to have them take office promptly so they would have official power to act and promptly to carry out his plans. He arranged for the 10 members to meet in the White House study at 3 o'clock to be sworn in by Justice Benjamin Nathan Cardozo of the Supreme Court.

There was no indication an official Cabinet meeting would follow, but it was pointed out that the President would have an opportunity to talk over the things he has in mind with his official family.

As the Cabinet confirmations were completed, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, exercising his function as majority leader for the first time, moved a recess until 9:45 a. m. Monday for the memorial service in honor of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, who was slated to be one of those confirmed as a Cabinet officer today. Hull first was confirmed as Secretary of State.

When the name of Woodin, for Secretary of the Treasury, was called, Senator Couzens (Rep., Michigan), interrupted to ask information as to his holdings in private corporations.

Senator Copeland (Dem., New York), said he had known Woodin 14 years and there was "no finer example of an outstanding and loyal citizen. He is a man of large interests and I am advised he has divested himself of any office or holding that would interfere with his appointment."

Senator Wagner, New York Democrat, said he had similar information. "My information," Wagner said, "is that he has divested himself of all business interests that might raise any question." Wagner added that Woodin was a man of

OATH OF OFFICE TAKEN BY NEW PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, March 4.—THE oath prescribed for Franklin D. Roosevelt today to induce him into the office as President of the United States, from Article II, Section I, Paragraph 6 of the Constitution, was:

"I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will, to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

WASHINGTON, March 4.—John N. Garner took the oath of office as Vice-President at 12:01.

His hand upraised, the new Vice-President pronounced the oath at one minute after noon. According to custom, Mr. Curtis administered it.

In a short address, the retiring second in command of the nation wished the new administration well, declaring the present was no time for partisanship.

Then Mr. Garner, assuming his new duties in one of the briefest of inaugural addresses, delivered extemporaneously, said he deemed it inappropriate to say more than this:

"I come as presiding officer to co-operate, to be helpful, and to do the best I can to carry out the proceedings of the Senate."

Immediately he concluded, the assembled company began the slow process of transferring, with much ceremonial, to the place assigned for the inauguration of Mr. Roosevelt.

Vice-President Charles Curtis called the Senate to order at 11:30 a. m. today preparatory to turning over to Garner the presiding officer's gavel.

After a brief meeting to act on waiting legislation the Senate adjourned for a few moments before being called back into session for the Vice-Presidential inauguration.

In a few minutes members of the House which had just adjourned, began assembling in the Senate chamber to see Garner transformed from Speaker to Vice-President.

All Senators and Senators-elect were seated on the Republican side to provide space for the House membership on the Democratic side.

There was a great hubbub on the floor as the 435 House members filed in.

THOUSANDS JAM CAPITOL GROUND FOR CEREMONY

Hoover's Successor Takes Oath as President and, in Solemn Address, Outlines Plans for Dealing With Crisis.

COLORFUL PARADE GETS UNDER WAY

New and Old Chief Executives Are Cheered on Ride Down Pennsylvania Avenue on the Way to the Inauguration.

By CHARLES G. ROSS, Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Inaugurated as President in a critical hour of the Republic's history, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, in a brief address immediately after taking the oath of office, declared in measured tones that if Congress should fail to take the steps required by a "stricken nation in the midst of a crisis," he would ask for as great executive powers as if the nation were invaded by a foreign foe.

The suggestion that he might seek dictatorial powers to meet the existing crisis—a crisis that cast a shadow over the whole impressive inaugural ceremonies—came near the end of a speech in which the new President lashed "unscrupulous money changers" for their large part in bringing the country to its desperate plight, and pledged his best efforts to restoring "to the ancient truths" the temple they had defamed.

Huge Crowd on Plaza. The great audience on the Capitol Plaza, stretching away from the inaugural stand as far as one could see, heard the President's words with close attention, but without the volume of applause that a speech signaling the advent of a new administration would have evoked in normal times.

Solemnity was in the tones of the speaker, and solemnity in the response of his audience. There was frequent hand-clapping from those immediately in front of the President, but nothing in the nature of a general demonstration. Perhaps the most emphatic expression of approval was that given the President's promise to seek wartime powers if other measures should fail.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke with chin up, in his usual clear and well-modulated voice. With his height and his broad shoulders, he made a striking figure.

Arrived at Platform. Mr. Roosevelt came to the platform on the east steps of the Capitol at a little after 1 o'clock. Awaiting him there were the outgoing President and Mrs. Hoover; members of the Roosevelt family; the Justices of the Supreme Court of the United States; Cabinet members, Senators and others in high official places. With his left hand, Mr. Roosevelt held the arm of his tall son James.

EARLY LEGISLATION PLANNED BY DEMOCRATS ON THE BANK SITUATION

LEADERS EXPECT CALL FOR SPECIAL SESSION AT ONCE

Senator Robinson Declares Program Is Being Prepared and Action in Congress Will Be Hastened.

DETAILS HAVE NOT BEEN DISCLOSED

All-Night Conferences in Washington by Officials of Old and New Administrations Held.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Senator Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader in the Senate, said today that a legislative program was being prepared to meet the financial emergency and the banking situation and would be hastened for action at an early meeting of the new Congress.

President Hoover today signed without comment a measure authorizing the Comptroller of the Currency to limit withdrawals from banks in the District of Columbia. Before they went to the Capitol for the inauguration ceremonies, Mr. Hoover and Mr. Roosevelt held separate conferences on the economic situation. Until an early hour this morning high financial officials of both the incoming and outgoing administrations conferred at the Treasury.

Following the declaration of the two and three-day banking suspensions by New York and Illinois and similar action in other states Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill were of the opinion the new Congress would be called into session almost immediately.

Robinson said the program the Democrats were working on would be expedited as much as possible. He added that the details could not be disclosed.

Comment by Rainey. Representative Rainey of Illinois, the Democratic leader in the House and next Speaker, predicted that an extra session of Congress would be called at "the earliest possible time." He said he did not know when President Roosevelt would call the session but that he felt extra next week would not be too soon.

Senator Wagner (Dem.), New York, told newspaper men he would carry immediately to Democratic leaders and President Roosevelt an appeal for immediate emergency banking legislation. Wagner said he would appeal to Democratic leaders to begin working out a program and some time this afternoon would call on Roosevelt with the same objective.

Because of the inauguration ceremonies, Wagner said, effective Congressional action today would be impossible, but he was hopeful that action could be had by Monday or Tuesday.

A bank moratorium, he said, "is the only thing to do" to meet the emergency of the banks themselves, but he added quick steps are necessary to enable them to reopen and continue operations.

Immediate discussions of the situation began early today at the White House and the Mayflower with officials calling on President Hoover and President-elect Roosevelt.

All Night Conferences. The announcement of bank holidays in the nation's great financial centers coincided with the conclusion of all-night conferences here in which the high financial officers of the incoming and outgoing administrations participated.

Until after 3:30 a. m. the group wrestled with the problem of spreading bank moratoria, and then Secretary Mills told newspaper men announcements were to be expected immediately in New York and Chicago.

Throughout the long conference banking heads in the Eastern and Middle Western metropolises were in constant touch by telephone with the officials here.

President-elect Roosevelt had retired, as had President Hoover. But previously each had discussed the situation with his close advisers. Hoover with Mills and Attorney General Mitchell, and Roosevelt with his Secretary of the Treasury, William H. Woodin, and wife Senator Hull, Secretary of State-designate, Senator Glass and Prof. Raymond Moley, his economic adviser.

Roosevelt Sworn In As Thousands Jam Capitol

He dropped the supporting arm and stood alone. A cheer went up. It was quickly hushed as Roosevelt faced Chief Justice Hughes to take the oath of office.

Chief Justice Hughes put to him the simple oath, and Roosevelt in firm, clear tones responded with his pledge to uphold the Constitution of the United States.

"So help me God," he concluded, and, as the thirty-first President of the United States stepped forward to address the nation.

Roosevelt is the thirty-first man to become President, 30 having preceded him in the 144 years since George Washington was inaugurated. Grover Cleveland served two non-consecutive terms, 1885-1889 and 1893-1897, this fact sometimes giving rise to the erroneous reckoning as to all of his successors under which Herbert Hoover would be regarded as the thirty-first and Roosevelt as the thirty-second.

15-Minute Speech. Mr. Roosevelt began speaking at 1:09 p. m. and ended 15 minutes later. As he finished, Ex-President Hoover stepped forward and grasped his hand. They stood for a moment with hands clasped, smiling and chiding.

They parted, Roosevelt to return downtown to review the parade in his honor, Hoover to take a train for New York. The change of administrations was now complete.

The new President spoke on a note of intense realism. This was pre-eminently a time, he began, when the whole truth should be spoken, "frankly and boldly."

Only a foolish optimism, he said, "can deny the dark realities of the moment."

He gave his diagnosis in blunt words. The people were not at fault, nor had there been any failure of the money changers here.

"The rulers of the exchange of mankind's goods have fallen through their own stubbornness and their own incompetence, have admitted their failure and abdicated. Practices of the unscrupulous money changers stand indicted in the court of public opinion, rejected by the hearts and minds of men."

These false leaders knew only the old rule of "a generation of self-seekers." When credit failed, they knew no remedy except to propose more credit.

had a little trouble getting the step at first, but soon swung into the military strains of their hands.

It was nearly 3 o'clock before the military units heading the line of march reached the White House. The President had had lunch, sent his Cabinet members to the Senate and taken his place in the special glassed-in section of the stand for the review. Mr. Roosevelt wore a heavy coat, with broad collar.

He stood throughout the beginning of the parade taking his eyes off the marchers only to exchange an occasional greeting with those about him. They included his family and those of his Cabinet members.

After the military units came a political section of the parade, led by the chief of the Democratic party organization, James A. Farley, the new Postmaster General. The political leaders rose in a fleet of automobiles, many of them closed limousines.

Many of the State Governors in line were accompanied by uniformed military aids. Some of the motor cars bore the State flags.

Trip to the Capitol. The car bearing Mr. Roosevelt and his party arrived at the White House at 10 minutes before 11 o'clock. Mr. Roosevelt, breaking precedent, remained seated in the automobile instead of entering the Executive Mansion, while other members of the party advised President Hoover of the trip to the Capitol and the inauguration.

The automobile was an open touring car, with the top down.

Mrs. Roosevelt and others of the party walked up the steps and chatted with President Hoover's uniformed aids, standing at attention, to await the departure. Just five minutes ahead of schedule, at 12:35, President and Mrs. Hoover emerged from the north door under the great portico and joined the Roosevelt.

The retiring President took his place in the car beside his successor, Mr. Hoover on the right because he still was President, Mr. Roosevelt on the left.

Mr. Hoover and Mrs. Roosevelt rode in the second car in the line of seven.

Like Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Hoover was in formal morning dress, silk-tied, and wearing a military uniform of the Supreme Court, robed in their gowns of black.

Members of the House, the old and new Cabinets, the diplomatic corps and, last to arrive, the President and President-elect, were seated in the special chairs had been set just in front of the Vice-President's dais.

Color guards marched before the inaugural stand on the plaza immediately after the ceremonies in the Senate were ended. A hush fell on the great crowd. Nearly everyone stood.

BIG STOCK EXCHANGES ALSO CLOSE

New York and Chicago Boards Suspend Together With Cotton, Sugar and Metal Markets.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Governors of the New York Stock Exchange voted this morning to close the exchange today and Monday, the period of the New York State banking holiday.

A statement issued by the governing committee said: "The governing committee at a meeting held this morning in order to give full effect to the banking holiday declared by the Governor of the State of New York directed:

"First, that the exchange be closed during such holiday; "Second, that members and firms registered on the exchange be prohibited from making any contracts for the purchase or sale of the borrowing or lending of any securities, and also from permitting their offices or facilities to be used for the purpose of making or carrying out any such contracts;

"Third, that all deliveries be suspended on all member contracts except on such contracts as may be cleared by or settled through the Stock Clearing Corporation and that in such cases deliveries shall be made as the Stock Clearing Corporation shall direct.

"All members are directed to give full effect to the legal holiday declared by the State of New York, and the New York Cotton Exchange, the New York Metal Exchange, the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange and the Rubber Exchange also voted to close. The Bank Stock and Unlisted Security Dealers' Association made a similar announcement.

In all capitals in Europe the American bank holidays resulted in suspension of dollar quotations on foreign exchange markets until the situation changes.

Isolation prepared for him in the closing hours of the day in Congress.

Mrs. Hoover, Mrs. Roosevelt and the others of the party took their places in the Capitol galleries.

The House, through, as usual, long before the Senate, adjourned half an hour before noon and Speaker Garner walked across to the Senate wing to be ready to take the oath of office.

He arrived smiling and jovial, and went at once to the Vice-President's room, where Vice-President Curtis greeted him with outstretched hand. They stood and talked for a moment.

After the greeting, Curtis went immediately to the Senate rostrum to take up his gavel for the last time. Garner lingered a moment in the corridor before turning into the office of the presidential physician for a final physical checkup. Dr. Joel T. Boone pronounced him "in excellent condition, better than when he entered the White House."

Earlier in the morning Mr. Roosevelt attended a short prayer service at St. John's Episcopal Church, just across Lafayette Square from the White House.

"great capacity and very high character."

Cousins asked if Wagner was advised "in what method Mr. Woodin had directed himself at his hold-ings." "I have my information from the newspapers," Wagner replied. "If there is any question, I am sure he will direct himself of all holdings. The President is very confident in the leadership of the nation. The duties and responsibilities of their high offices are great."

public character. There are many ways in which it can be helped, but it can never be helped merely by talking about it. We must act and act quickly.

"Finally, in our progress toward a resumption of work we require two safeguards before a return to the life of the old order; there must be a strict supervision of all banking and credits and investments; there must be an end to speculation with other people's money, and there must be provision for an adequate but sound currency.

"These are the lines of attack. I shall presently urge upon a new Congress in special session detailed measures for their fulfillment, and I shall seek the immediate assistance of the several States.

"Through this program of action we address ourselves to putting our own national house in order and making income balance 'outside' our international trade relations, though vastly important, are in point of time and necessity secondary to the establishment of a sound national economy. I favor as a practical policy the putting of first things first. I shall spare no effort to restore world trade, by international economic readjustment, but the emergency at home cannot wait on that accomplishment.

"The basic thought that guides these specific means of national recovery is not narrowly nationalistic. It is the insistence, as a first consideration, upon the independence of the various elements in and parts of the United States—a recognition of the old and permanently important manifestation of the American spirit of the pioneer. It is the desire to recover, it is the immediate duty, it is the strongest assurance that the recovery will endure.

"In the field of world policy I will dedicate this nation to the policy of the good neighbor—the neighbor who respectfully respects himself and because he does so, respects the rights of others—the neighbor who respects his obligations and respects the sanctity of his agreements in and with a world of neighbors.

"If I read the temper of our people correctly, we now realize as we have never realized before our interdependence on each other; that we cannot merely take but we must give as well; that if we are to go forward we must move as a trained and loyal army willing to sacrifice for the good of common discipline, but without such discipline no progress is made, no leadership becomes effective. We are, I know, ready and willing to submit our lives and property to such discipline because it makes possible a leadership which aims at a larger good. This I propose to offer, pledging that the larger purposes will bind upon us all as a sacred obligation with a unity of duty hitherto evoked only in time of armed strife.

"With this pledge taken, I assume unhesitatingly the leadership of this great army of our people dedicated to a disciplined attack upon our common problems.

"Action in this image and to this end is feasible under the form of government which we have inherited from our ancestors. Our Constitution is so simple and practical that it is possible always to meet extraordinary needs by changes in emphasis and arrangement without loss of essential form. That is why our constitutional system has proved itself the most superbly enduring political mechanism the modern world has produced. It has met every stress of vast expansion of territory, of foreign wars, of bitter internal strife, of world crises. It is the immune system of the body. It is to be hoped that the normal balance of executive and legislative authority may be wholly adequate to meet the unprecedented task before us. But it may be that an unprecedented forms were seated with the representatives of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Curtis faced two high silver-plated microphones as the clerk called the roll amid the confusion. Gov. John G. Pollard sat with former Gov. Harry F. Byrd who succeeded Claude A. Swanson as Senator from Virginia.

After the diplomatic corps was announced and seated in the front row on the left, high ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps were announced individually and escorted to seats on the same side.

Garner, escorted by the joint committee on arrangements, took a seat to the left of Vice-President Curtis, and the assembled company applauded.

Garner sat with his hands folded, then picked up a copy of the oath he was soon to take. His hand trembled slightly as he read it over, and laid it down. He fingered his glasses.

Turning over his gavel to Garner, Vice-President Curtis delivered his valedictory.

"There is now the responsibility of leadership," declared the veteran Kansas legislator.

"But the problem is the concern of each and every one of us, whether retiring from office or entering office."

"I know the new administration will do everything in its power to bring about the desired result. I sincerely wish success to President-elect Roosevelt, to Vice-President Curtis, and to the Democratic majority in Congress.

"A few minutes they are about to assume the leadership of the nation. The duties and responsibilities of their high offices are great.

"Our new leaders are entitled to, and I am sure will receive, the full cooperation of everyone, for the common good of all."

"To me personally," he said, "this is one of the most important days of my life. It marks my leave-taking as your presiding officer, my leave-taking as a member in the halls of Congress where I have been present as Vice-President of the United States, as Senator, and as Congressman, for 40 years.

"It is with deep emotion that I bid you good-by and shortly go forth from here as a private citizen."

"Urging the new Senate to be 'cheerfully and without complaint' all Garner's rulings 'which are fair and impartial,' Curtis concluded.

"After my best wishes to Mr. Garner for success in the chair he is about to assume."

Ex-President Boards Special Train Immediately After the Inauguration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 4.—A private citizen again, after four years as President and Mr. Hoover left the Capitol this afternoon for New York amid the cheers of a large crowd. From their four-car special train they waved farewell.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hoover were visibly affected. They smiled and seemed pleased.

Several hundred persons had assembled at the entrance to the presidential room when the Hoovers arrived at the station. There were three or four women to meet man in the crowd. The cheering began before Mr. and Mrs. Hoover alighted from their limousine.

Inside the presidential room another crowd awaited them. The Hoovers were assembled members of the National Capital Republican Club, the Hoover-Curtis Campaign Club, League of Republican Women and a delegation of girl scouts who had come to the station to bid them good-bye.

Mr. Hoover shook hands with many of his admirers, as did Mrs. Hoover, who was escorted by Secretary Wilbur. Others of the retiring Cabinet who accompanied the Hoovers were Secretaries Stimson and Adams, Attorney-General Mitchell and Postmaster Brown and Secretary Hurley.

Mrs. Hoover, attired in a brown traveling costume, carried several bouquets of roses and sweet peas which she had presented her to the women's organization as she passed between the double lines in the presidential room.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoover said farewell to the Cabinet members and other of the close friends standing on the observation platform of the car before the train pulled out.

"We'll see you in 1936," shouted some of those in the crowd as they moved away.

MISSOURI SENATE ACTS TO MEET BANK EMERGENCY

Days in Session to Receive Special Bill Being Prepared by Governor and Advisers.

RESOLUTION ASKS PUBLIC TO BE CALM

Senator Donnelly Says It May Be Necessary to Extend Moratorium in State Several Days.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 4.—The Missouri Senate today took session this afternoon to institute emergency banking relief legislation which is in process of preparation at a conference in Gov. Park's office.

Senator Donnelly, majority floor leader, announced to the Senate today that a real emergency existed on that the Senate should not adjourn.

Senator Donnelly had just returned to the Senate after an hour's conference with the Governor; Senator Kinney, former Kansas City and St. Louis attorney, representing banking interests, had read to the Senate a resolution, which was adopted, calling on the people to remain calm and pledging the support of the Senate to the Governor in his efforts to handle properly the banking situation.

Details of Bill Undisclosed. None of those in the conference could discuss the bill being prepared, but it is understood to have been a measure brought to Jefferson City by Mitchell, proposing to place unlimited power in Governor and State Finance Commissioner to place into effect emergency banking legislation. The bill would be under the broad powers of the State to do those things necessary for the safety and safety of the people.

"It had been expected the Senate would adjourn at noon," Senator Donnelly said, "but I shall ask that Senators return at 2 o'clock to make possible the initial steps in legislation which it is believed is essential in the banking emergency."

"The banks of many states have voted under moratoriums, and the Governor of Missouri has asked at Missouri banks declare a holiday for two days."

"The President of the United States, in his inaugural message, has asked for wartime powers to set conditions which exist throughout the country."

Bill Expected This Afternoon. "There is grave doubt that the Governor will be able to pass the legislation a week ago will meet the requirements of the situation. It is necessary that legislation be enacted which will protect the liquid assets of the State. If there is no legislation there is grave danger."

A bill is being prepared and should be ready for introduction this afternoon."

After the adjournment of the Senate, Donnelly said that it might be necessary to extend the moratorium in Missouri several days after Monday.

It will be impossible under the Missouri Constitution for a bill introduced today to become a law until Thursday. The Constitution requires that a bill be read on three successive days in each house of the legislature. The bill introduced this afternoon could be passed in the Senate Tuesday and read in the House the same day. It could be passed in the House and signed by the Governor Thursday.

The text of the resolution, introduced by Senator Donnelly, was unanimously adopted, following "Whereas, the action taken by other neighboring states in declaring a banking moratorium rather than the financial situation in Missouri, made it imperative that the State of Missouri take similar action:

"Now, be it resolved by the Senate that the action of the Governor in declaring a banking holiday for today and Monday be and the same be hereby approved, and the Governor be and he is authorized to take this step, in view of the emergency."

"It is further resolved, that the Senate in confidence in the integrity of the Governor's intentions, and we appeal to all citizens of the State to be calm in this hour of distress, and support the Governor in solving of the problem."

"And be it further resolved that the Senate stands ready to cooperate with the Governor in rendering all proper assistance."

3000 CHINESE AT CAPITAL ROUTED

Further Thrust at Peiping Depends on Treatment of Mikado's Nationals There, Spokesman Says.

By the Associated Press.
CHINCHOW, Manchuria, March 4.—Japanese troops occupied Jehol City, the capital and last Chinese stronghold in the Mongolian province of Jehol, today, and immediately turned to the task of seizing the passes along the north wall of China.

Major-General Tadashi Kawahara's Sixteenth Infantry Brigade entered Jehol City at 11:30 a. m., after a battle with 3000 Chinese four miles from the capital. The Chinese were routed and many cannon, machine guns and horses were captured. An aerial bombardment preceded the entry of the troops.

The Japanese then continued the pursuit of the Chinese, intending to follow them as far as Kuppenkow, in the great wall of China, and occupy that gateway to Peiping, only 50 miles further south.

The Fourteenth Infantry Brigade under Major-General Heijiro Hatohi routed Chinese soldiers of Lieutenant-General Langkow, another pass between Kuppenkow and Shanhaiwan, on the coast.

Major-General Yoshimichi Suzuki's 16th Infantry Brigade, the remainder of Lieutenant-General Langkow's 8th Division, was close on the heels of the Kawahara Brigade in arriving in Jehol City.

Japanese reports said Gov. Tang Yu-Lin of Jehol, with a bodyguard, fled from his capital northward toward Lungkuang, possibly on the Chahar, and adjoining Mongolian province. There were reports of disintegration between him and Marshal Chang Hsiao-Liang at Peiping. It had been expected he might flee to Peiping.

Jehol City was captured 11 days after the first Japanese thrust into the province to Peipiao on the eastern border and eight days after Lieutenant-General Maenagawa's 5th Division and Major-General Kanno's 4th Cavalry Brigade left Tungling for the long sweep from the north to Chihfeng, transportation center of Jehol.

The offensive was completed much more quickly and with fewer casualties than the Japanese anticipated, an army spokesman said. Before today, the Japanese battle casualties in the entire campaign were placed at less than 50, although frostbite put more than 100 in hospitals.

Major-General Kaoru Nakamura's 33d Infantry, concentrated here, was ordered to mop up the stretch immediately north of the great wall and place garrisons in all passes.

Peiping Area Threatened.
An army spokesman declared that whether the Japanese invaded the Peiping-Tientsin area in North China depended entirely on the behavior of the Chinese troops retreating through the Great Wall passes and those already on the south side of the wall.

"We have no intention or desire to cross the Great Wall unless compelled to defend our compatriots in Peiping and Tientsin," the spokesman said. "If the Chinese do not menace them, the conflict is as good as over."

Henceforth, the Japanese say, the Great Wall will be the southern boundary of the new state of Manchukuo established by the Japanese in the territory wrested from the Chinese.

ROOSEVELT BEGINS DAY WITH CHURCH SERVICE

Prayers Said for New President and for the Nation.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 4.—First of all in the day's events for Franklin D. Roosevelt was a visit to historic St. John's Episcopal Church. With Mr. Roosevelt went his Cabinet and members of their families. They heard the Rev. Endicott Peabody, who married the Roosevelts 25 years ago, ask spiritual aid for the nation. The special service was arranged by Mr. Roosevelt. Its purpose, as explained previously by the Rev. Robert Johnston, rector of the church, was: "A private citizen is going to church before undertaking a great office and he is going to say his prayers."

The church is known as "the Church of the Presidents," for there, Monroe, Madison, Fillmore, Jackson, Buchanan and Arthur worshipped.

Mr. Peabody prayed: "O Lord, our Heavenly Father, most heartily we beseech Thee with Thy favor to behold and bless Thy servant, Franklin D. Roosevelt, to be the President of the United States, and all others in authority; and so replenish them with Thy grace that they may always walk in Thy way. Endue them plentifully with heavenly gifts, grant them in health and prosperity long to live."

Then followed a short prayer for the nation:

"We humbly beseech Thee that we may always prove ourselves a people mindful of Thy favor. Bless our land with honorable industry, sound learning and pure manners."

"Save us from violence, discord and confusion; defend our liberties and fashion into one united people the multitudes brought hither out of many kindreds and tongues."

Endue with the spirit of wisdom those to whom we entrust the authority of government that there may be peace and justice."

The service lasted a little less than half an hour.

Mr. Roosevelt accompanied by his mother, Mrs. James Roosevelt, his wife, and his eldest son, James, arrived in an open touring car, which was driven right to the entrance. He entered the church with his hand clasping the arm of his son.

Immediately following were his daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Dall, and their little girl, Anna Eleanor Dall, his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt; his daughter-in-law, Mrs. James Roosevelt; and his two young sons, Franklin Jr. and John, students under Dr. Peabody at Groton School.

Cabinet members attending the service had arrived ahead of the Roosevelts. Since attendance was limited to 100, the President-elect and his family, the Cabinet members and their families and the security staff, the small chapel was only three-quarters full.

BRITISH PRESS DOLLAR QUOTATION VIEWS, COMMENT ON ROOSEVELT IS SUSPENDED IN EUROPEAN CITIES

London Daily Express Looks to New U. S. President to Lead World to Recovery.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, March 4.—The British press signalled the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt today with reminders of his great opportunity and an almost prayerful plea for leadership of his own nation, and therefore the world, out of economic difficulty.

Everyday's new editor-in-chief of the Daily Express, in an editorial headed, "A Message to President Roosevelt From the Editor of the Daily Express," after calling attention to the eminence of the presidential office in normal times, continues:

"You mount your republican throne with the sympathy and prayers of people throughout the world. There are few who would take your place and only a fool could envy you."

"From the windows of the White House you may well look out upon your country and wonder from what source will come salvation. And from those same windows you may look further and ask, 'What friend have we in the whole wide world?'"

"Shall I answer the latter question, Mr. President? You and your country have a true friend in this island of England."

Continuing, Baxter comments on the mutual difficulties of the two countries and on the personal type of each country which are antipathetic to each other. Then he says:

"There are fools who think you lack courage as a nation. What are the skyscrapers of New York but monuments of courage, what are your railways that bind the coasts with ribs of steel but tributes to the sinews and hearts of their builders? People are saying now, 'God help America,' but I say, 'God help any nation that thinks the spirit of America is broken.'"

"More than any other nation England still is your mother country, the trustee of your past, the source of your traditions. When you are harassed and perplexed, think of the people of England, the winding lanes of England, the cottage homes of England, and know that England is your friend."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 4.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's program was filled today. Her most important task was to receive at the White House late this afternoon, following the inaugural parade, more than 2000 guests.

Although Mrs. Roosevelt's social activities were considerably curtailed because of the death Thursday of Senator Thomas J. Walsh, who was to have been a member of her husband's Cabinet, she decided to have the reception because many of those invited might not be able to visit Washington soon again.

She will go to the inaugural ball for a short time tonight, but the cause after it was announced that she would not attend many tickets to the ball, a charity affair, were turned back. In making this decision she was influenced also to a great extent by members of the Walsh family, who insisted that the Senator would not have wanted any of the inaugural festivities canceled.

LONDON, March 4.—Declaration of a bank holiday in New York resulted today in the suspension of dollar quotations in every European capital.

In this city there was no quotation on any foreign exchange, for the European currency rates are based upon the dollar. The quotation on gold also was suspended. It was uncertain what the program for Monday would be. But the French franc may be used as a basis for exchange rates. American branch banks were open. The stock market was quiet, the close dull.

Hotels, tourist agencies and some banks accommodated Americans here who needed money. One West End hotel cashed dollar checks for pounds at par with the understanding that the hotel would return the balance when the dollar is quoted again. By this device Americans were paying about $1.40 for the pound than yesterday.

Lloyds expressed confidence that the United States would not be forced off the gold standard, and offered odds of about 5 to 1 that America would still be on gold on June 1. Insurance against abandonment of the gold standard before that date was quoted at 21 per cent.

In Paris, American and French banks declined to cash checks drawn on American banks affected by the holiday. Other foreign exchange quotations also were suspended.

Brussels and Amsterdam did not quote the dollar. In Amsterdam the unofficial rate was 2.465 guilders. Payment of American checks and bills was withheld in Copenhagen. American branch banks in Havana continued to operate. The Cuban Government prohibited publication of news concerning the bank holidays in the United States.

FORMER ST. LOUISANS PLAN
FLIGHT AROUND WORLD
Rom Mahaback and William Solberg to Be Guests at Dinner Here Tonight.

By the Associated Press.
ROM MAHABACK and William Solberg, former Lambert-St. Louis field flyers who are planning a round-the-world flight in connection with the Chicago world fair, arrived in the city today as the guests of local flying enthusiasts.

The American Airways transport in which the flyers made the trip from Chicago was met north of the municipal airport by planes flown in formation by naval reserve pilots. A committee headed by Field Manager Parks greeted the visitors in front of the new airport administration building.

"Tonight the flyers will be guests at a dinner at Hotel Coronado," later both will broadcast over Station KMOX.

Mahaback and Solberg were instructors in the Universal Flying School at Lambert-St. Louis field several years ago. They hope to beat the time of Post and Gatty on a globe-circling flight starting from Chicago the opening week of the world's fair. A Lockheed Sirius monoplane equipped with postons is being prepared for them.

S. W. STRAUS INVESTING FIRM
PLACED IN RECEIVERSHIP
WILMINGTON, Del., March 4.—Frank G. Tallman of Wilmington and Morgan A. Kassman of Scranton, Pa., were appointed receivers by Federal Judge John F. Nichols as receivers for S. W. Straus Investing Corporation.

Suit for receivership was filed against the concern recently by Edgar Churchill of Chicago. The bill of complaint alleged that, although the book value of the corporation exceeded its liabilities, the concern was insolvent in that it was unable to pay.

The concern filed an answer contesting the appointment of receivers. The corporation was organized in 1929 for the purpose of investing in real estate and other securities.

VISITS REJECTED SUITOR WHO SHOT SELF IN SEVILLE

Miss Mary Taylor, Pittsburgh, Says She Will Face Him in Private Hospital.

By the Associated Press.
SEVILLE, Spain, March 4.—Miss Mary Taylor, 25 years old, the daughter of Gordon M. Taylor of Pittsburgh and Scranton, Pa., arrived here today to visit R. Eric Hogberg, said to be the son of a Stockholm publisher, who shot and wounded himself here Wednesday.

She said she was transferring Hogberg to a private hospital as an act of friendly charity. She plans to leave soon for Mallorca.

Miss Taylor said at Madrid Friday night that R. Eric Hogberg, who shot himself in Seville, Spain, Wednesday, had twice proposed marriage to her, but had been refused. She quoted Hogberg as saying: "I have a way of making you accept. I will shoot myself."

AMHERST PRESIDENT GUEST OF ALUMNI HERE

Notables Among College's Graduates Cited at Dinner for Dr. Stanley King.

The prominence of Amherst College graduates in public affairs was emphasized last night at a meeting of the St. Louis Alumni Association in honor of Dr. Stanley King, who was inaugurated last fall as the eleventh president of Amherst.

Opening the meeting as president of the association, Eugene F. Williams, graduate of the class of 1907, pointed out that the next Speaker of the House, Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, was graduated from Amherst in the class of '83, while his Republican opponent, Congressman Snell, was a member of the class of '94.

The new Director of the Budget, Lewis E. Douglas, was a graduate in the class of '16; he was a star pitcher on the college baseball team. The late former President Coolidge and the late Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, also were Amherst graduates.

With other Amherst men of the Middle West Congressman Rainey had been invited to the meeting last night. He said he regrets that he would be unable to attend because of the press of business incident to the inauguration of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Dr. King, who resigned as a vice-president in Boston of the International Shoe Co. last fall to become the eleventh president of Amherst, discussed the liberalization of courses at the college, under which students are no longer compelled to follow set curricula, but may select the subjects that best suit them.

"We want our students to feel the adventure and excitement of thinking," he said. "We want them to think for themselves and believe independent thinking can be stimulated best during the college years."

Frank C. Rand, chairman of the board of the International Shoe Co. also was a speaker. He told of his associations in business with President King. William T. Jones, president of the St. Louis Bar Association, spoke briefly as the representative of a group of men at the meeting whose sons are now in Amherst.

The following were elected to serve as officers of the Amherst Association for one year: Louis J. Nicolaus, president; E. Gage Scudder and Hayward H. Gatch, vice-presidents; Willis T. Engle, secretary-treasurer.

Speech Increases Feeling in Geneva That Meeting Is in Danger of Collapse

the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Switzerland, March 4. The general belief that the Disarmament Conference faces failure has crystallized yesterday by an incident in the general commission conference and by an announcement in London that Prime Minister MacDonald was coming to Geneva soon to assist in reaching an early decision.

The promised advent of the British Prime Minister is interpreted here as acknowledgment that some-

The incident in the general commission was an attack by Count Adolf Nadoiny of Germany, who charged that the conference had been ineffective.

In the past four weeks the constituent commissions of the conference have debated many questions, but because of conflicting views of the chief delegations they have succeeded only in referring these questions to committees and

Meanwhile, Arthur Henderson of Great Britain, president of the conference, is suggesting between de-termination needs to abandon efforts for arms reduction and the feeling that the conference is in desperate straits.

BACK TO FARM MOVEMENT ON GAIN IN ARKANSAS

Hundreds of Box Houses and Cabins Built in the Land by the City-Jobs.

Deserted to the Post-Disaster.

ARKANSAS, Ark., Jan. 4.—Back—the-farm-is the own-your-own movement is gaining momentum in the Ozarks these days. Hundreds of box houses and cabins are being built to idle farm lands and "advers" jobs, who are taking advantage of the fact that they may receive no money from the government for their own lands. Most of these land owners are from the industrial centers who have realized that the situation is in the Ozarks, where they can at least make their own way and have food and

It is true that farm products are selling at prices lower than the pre-war level. But, according to the statistics of the Northwest Arkansas area, farmers are competing for tomatoes at 37 and 38 cents a ton, and many growers last year sold their tomatoes at 10 cents a ton. If soil without fertilizer will grow tomatoes from three to five tons per acre, most of these new farmers are making a profit. The farmer who has a garden truck, they have their own milk and butter, a good milk cow can be purchased for $20. A 100-pound chicken can be raised for $1.50 and with a few chickens one is assured of a comfortable living.

Drawn on equal population lines, ones said it would give the State instead of 25 districts and that Chicago would have 14 Congressmen and downstate 12. Lyons was chairman of a subcommittee which was to submit a recommendation during the next session, precipitating a controversy.

Numerous other bills were introduced in both the Senate and the House, mostly of a perfunctory nature, the principal business of the day in the lower branch of the Legislature being the reading of Horner's plea for prompt passage of a sales tax.

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Livestock on American farms shrank approximately $500,000,000 in value over 17 per cent—during the last year. The Bureau of Agricultural Economics, which made this statement today, said the shrinkage came despite an increase of about 10 per cent in the number of animals.

HOMER CUMMINGS TO TAKE PLACE OF WALSH IN CABINET

Connecticut Man, Slated to Be Governor of Philippines, to Be Attorney-General Instead.

SAYS HE'LL FOLLOW MONTANAN'S IDEAS

These Include Strict Enforcement of Prohibition Laws So Long as They Remain on Statute Books.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 4.—Homer Cummings of Connecticut, who it was disclosed yesterday will be Attorney-General in the Roosevelt Cabinet in place of the late Senator Thomas J. Walsh, said he would endeavor, so far as possible to carry out the views and policies of Senator Walsh, including strict enforcement of the prohibition laws so long as they remain on the statute books.

Cummings was one of the first New Englanders to support Roosevelt for the presidency and was an adviser from the start of the campaign. A former chairman of the Democratic National Committee, he was in the group that managed the successful Roosevelt fight at the Chicago convention.

Active in Politics Since 1896. He is 62 years old and an attorney. He has been in politics since William Jennings Bryan's first campaign in 1896. For many years he has been one of a handful of men who kept the Democratic party alive in the traditionally Republican State of Connecticut.

In 1920 he headed the National Committee for six months and delivered the keynote speech at the convention which nominated Roosevelt for the Vice-Presidency. Cummings, twice an unsuccessful senatorial nominee in his State, was mentioned for the presidential nomination that year, but he refused to become a candidate.

He never has hesitated to disagree with the other Connecticut Democratic leaders if he did not share their views. In 1924 he supported William G. McAdoo for the presidency though the majority of his State delegation favored Alfred E. Smith. Again last year the delegation was bound to Smith after Cummings had led an unsuccessful fight to pledge the group to Roosevelt.

Lawyer at Stamford, Conn. The next Attorney-General, born in Chicago, comes from old New England stock. Since his graduation from Yale law school in 1893, he has practiced at Stamford, Conn.

Three times Mayor of his home city, he was State's Attorney from July, 1914, to the fall of 1925. After the war he aided the Department of Justice in handling several war claims cases.

Cummings and his second wife, the former Marguerite T. Owing of Indianapolis, came to Washington Wednesday night for the inaugural ceremonies. He originally had planned to remain here only until Monday.

His selection to be Attorney-General was made known yesterday in a statement issued by Stephen T. Early. The statement:

"Mr. Roosevelt had expected to announce today the selection of Mr. Homer B. Cummings of Connecticut to be Governor-General of the Philippines.

"Because of the untimely death of Senator Walsh he has asked Mr. Cummings to assume the post of Attorney-General for a few weeks before going to the Philippines as Governor-General.

STUDENT RUNS FOR MAYOR AS SOCIALIST AT COLUMBIA, MO.

Theodore Graham, 27, Says Old Party Members Can Do Nothing but Hold Political Jobs.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 4.—Theodore Graham, 27-year-old law student of the University of Missouri, was nominated at a meeting of Socialists here for Mayor of Columbia. Graham, who intends to speak five times a week in support of the Socialist ticket, said:

"I have no idea what is meant by objection to the freedom of students," Potter remarked. "Always—as long as I can remember—we have let the students develop themselves, so that they may become self-determining. And we have never had any trouble with our students, here or after they have gone to other schools."

"The students have been free to come to me at any time, and I have always felt free to stand before them, on any question, and say, 'I don't think that's the right thing to do—but it's up to you.' I certainly do not believe in saying, 'Do this' or 'Don't do that.'"

Potter said he was quite willing to resign, since, he explained, "It is impossible to accomplish anything while the students develop themselves, so that they may become self-determining. And we have never had any trouble with our students, here or after they have gone to other schools."

"I'm not nearly so much excited about this as some of my friends," he said. "I've had a glorious time in these 21 years with the people of Alton and Illinois. I want to do something for their faith. And it's something to have 200 students love you. After all, a college president may have his ups and downs, but he has a good time."

Trouble at Shurtleff; Student Strike Leader, Campus Scene and President Who Is Getting Out

ALTON COLLEGE HEAD TELLS WHY HE QUIT

"Bickering" Over Trifles With Some Trustees Is Cause, G. M. Potter Says.

Personalities rather than any substantial differences in principle were at the bottom of the "constant friction" with some trustees which caused George Milton Potter to resign after 20 years as president of Shurtleff College, Alton, Potter told the Post-Dispatch today.

Potter announced he would hand in his formal resignation, effective June 30, at the Monday night meeting of the trustees' executive committee. At the same meeting resolutions of confidence adopted by students and petitions circulated among Alton residents are to be presented by a student committee headed by Harold Mayfield, president of the student body.

The board of trustees, in an adjourned meeting Tuesday, stood 9 to 8 in favor of asking Potter's resignation. Nearly all the 283 students spent two hours in mass meeting instead of classes yesterday, voting unanimously to strike, and were halted only by the intervention of Potter himself.

Neither financial matters nor the freedom of students, Potter said today, had developed substantial differences of policy between himself and the board. He declared that all the "bickering" which had made his relations with some trustees unpleasant for nearly two years had arisen over trivial affairs.

An opposition faction, he explained, had grown up around four trustees, including an Alton member who had been a member for several years, and another, a minister, elected about 18 months ago. T. W. Gregory, chairman of the East St. Louis Power & Light Co., refuses to discuss the resignation.

"I have no idea what is meant by objection to the freedom of students," Potter remarked. "Always—as long as I can remember—we have let the students develop themselves, so that they may become self-determining. And we have never had any trouble with our students, here or after they have gone to other schools."

"The students have been free to come to me at any time, and I have always felt free to stand before them, on any question, and say, 'I don't think that's the right thing to do—but it's up to you.' I certainly do not believe in saying, 'Do this' or 'Don't do that.'"

BOMB EXPLODES IN BACK OF HOME OF UNION LEADER

Garage and Ashpit Damaged at Residence of Paul J. Morrin, Iron Workers' International Head.

A bomb tossed into an ashpit at the back of 5054 South Grand boulevard, the home of Paul J. Morrin, international president of the Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers' Union, damaged the ashpit and the brick wall of the garage and shattered windows in the neighborhood at 10:10 o'clock last night.

The blast, heard over a wide area, broke only one window in the Morrin home, but smashed about 30 windows in neighboring houses, police report. An expensive sedan in the garage was showered with particles of brick, but not badly damaged. No one was found who saw the bomb placed in the ashpit. The Morrin home is at the corner of Grand and Walsh street, the location offering several ready avenues of flight for the bombers.

The explosion interrupted a bridge game at the Morrin home. The labor leader, who has been the center of many stormy labor disputes during his 16 years in office, said he was at a loss to account for the bombing. He said there were no strikes or disputes in progress at present, and that he had received no threats recently. In addition to being head of the iron workers, Morrin is editor of the Trades Council Union News, local labor publication.

Morrin was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary in 1912, following conviction at Indianapolis with other union leaders, of conspiracy to transport dynamite illegally. The charges grew out of the dynamiting of non-union jobs.

Morrin was released from Leavenworth prison in 1916 after serving three-fourths of his sentence. John H. Barry, another St. Louis iron worker, received a four-year term.

KIDNAPING INQUIRY BEGUN

Charles Boettcher II Witness Before Denver Grand Jury.

DENVER, Colo., March 4.—Charles Boettcher II testified yesterday before a Denver County grand jury opening an investigation of his kidnaping. Boettcher, a broker, was released Wednesday after the payment of $60,000 ransom.

His father, Claude K. Boettcher, multimillionaire industrialist, also testified.

Twelve other persons whose names have been mentioned in the kidnaping were subpoenaed.

QUADRANGLE CLUB DISBANDED, NOT THE THYRSUS SOCIETY

Wrong Washington University Organization Named in Post-Dispatch Headline.

A small headline in the Post-Dispatch yesterday erroneously stated "Frankie and Johnnie Barred, So Thyrsus Society Quits." It was the Quadrangle Club, associated with Thyrsus at Washington University, that decided to give no show this year and disband. Thyrsus is planning some theatrical entertainment to take the place of "Frankie and Johnnie."

The text of the item under the headline was correct. In part, it read: "Following the decision to abandon production of a burlesque on the ballad, 'Frankie and Johnnie,' with Thyrsus Dramatic Society and Men's Glee Club because of possible objections to its moral tone, Arthur More, president, announced yesterday that the Washington University Quadrangle Club would give no show this year and be automatically disbanded."

ST. LOUIS TOW SENT TO ILLINOIS

City Also Over Lakes-to-Gulf Route.

The first Chicago boat reached here and the first St. Louis tow started for Chicago today over the modernized Lakes to the Gulf waterway.

The first boat southward was the Chicago Tribune's Sea King, a motor cruiser, chartered to bear the first freight and the first passengers over the new route. The first northbound tow comprised a boat and two barges of the Illinois River Navigation Co., formed by Spencer A. Merrill to operate between St. Louis and Chicago.

Complimentary packages from St. Louis merchants for customers in Chicago and cities along the route were carried by the Merrill barges. Complimentary shipments carried from Chicago by the Sea King included packages for Famous & Barr, Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney, Procter & Gamble, Meyer Bros. Drug Co. and Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Newman, 6450 Cecil avenue.

Delegations representing the Chamber of Commerce, Mississippi Valley Association, Propeller Club, Federal and private barge lines and the Waterways Journal met the Sea King upon its arrival at the Eagle Packet Co. dock, foot of Vine street.

With Evans on the Sea King are George Schreiber, also of the Tribune staff, as navigator, and Capt. John Anderson. They left Chicago at 3 p. m. last Monday and, traveling in easy stages, reached Alton yesterday afternoon.

The $27,000,000 Illinois waterway to Chicago is the last link connecting Chicago and the Great Lakes, by way of St. Louis and the improved Lower Mississippi, with New Orleans, the Gulf of Mexico and ocean lines to the ports of the world. Though a multiplicity of bridges still constrains the section near Chicago, boats drawing nine feet of water may now travel from Pittsburgh to Chicago, as well as to New Orleans, with 6-foot channels complete to Minneapolis and St. Paul and nearing completion to Kansas City.

IDEA OF U. S. DICTATORSHIP DISCUSSED BY RABBI GORDON

He Says in Address That Nation Needs Program Rather Than Increase in Power.

Rabbi Julius Gordon, in his address last night at Temple Emanuel, discussed the trend toward a dictatorial form of government. His topic being "Dictatorship or Democracy?"

"Why this craving for dictatorship, particularly in America?" Rabbi Gordon asked. He found the first answer in public dissatisfaction with parliamentary government.

"Yet," he said, "we must not delude ourselves in thinking that more centralized authority in government would constitute a panacea for all our ills and evils. We need in our life is not so much the power to execute an already defined program, but the program itself. I am inclined to believe that the wordiness of our leaders in Congress is also due to the vagueness of plan and purpose. Other words, it is not their verbiage which makes for inactivity, it is our inactivity which creates verbiage. How then can a dictatorship be in such a situation?"

"The ultimate success of a dictatorship is still doubtful. The monarch testifies not to the strength of the individual ruler but to our weakness; not to our certainty but to our confusion; not to his magic, but to our superstition. One thing is certain. A dictator will deprive us of our basic freedom, the freedom which we enjoy in a democracy despite all its shortcomings. And this freedom must be guarded zealously and crusadingly. Our democracy needs reinterpretation. It must be socialized. It must be humanized. But in the last analysis, it stands as an unprecedented experiment in human relationship, a gospel of faith in our own potential power and in the future of humanity."

Signs Red Cross Wool Bill. By the Associated Press. WOMAN LOSES $40 CHURCH FUNDS IN STREET ROBBERY

Brief Case Containing Money Snatched From Mrs. Ida Winte, Treasurer of Auxiliary.

Mrs. Ida Winte, treasurer of a women's auxiliary at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Neosho street and Alaska avenue, was robbed of a brief case containing $40 of the auxiliary's funds last night near her home, 4742 Minnesota avenue. Two young men snatched the brief case from her and escaped in an alley. Purses belonging to Miss Marie Bode, 2191 East Linton avenue, and Miss Martha Nelson, 4557 Easton avenue, were snatched from them by three Negro boys in the 4200 block of Easton. Miss Bode's purse contained $4.50 and Miss Nelson's $2.50.

Gus Gazzo and a visitor were held up in Gazzo's saloon at 2501 North Broadway by two men who took $35.

Joseph Dacey, manager of a Piggy Wiggly grocery at 1264 North Kingshighway, was ordered to put the money from the cash register into a paper sack, when held up yesterday. Dacey gave the robber $75. As in several other robberies recently, the holdup man selected groceries and offered a $1 bill in payment, before putting a hand in his pocket demanding money.

The outer door of a safe at the Woolworth chain store at 2310 Union boulevard was broken open but the burglars failed to get into the money compartment.

JUDGE DUNCAN OF ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT TO RETIRE

Jurist for 34 Years Formally Announces He Will Not Seek Re-Election.

MARION, Ill., March 4.—Supreme Court Judge Warren W. Duncan from the First Supreme Judicial District today formally announced his retirement, effective June 21. Judge Duncan's announcement was made at a meeting of Republican delegates from the First Supreme Judicial District.

Judge Duncan has served on the Supreme Bench for 18 years. He has been a jurist, serving in various courts, for 34 years.

Du Quoin was selected as the place for the Republican convention to nominate a Republican candidate for the Supreme Court election in the First Judicial District. The convention will be held April 7.

BANKRUPTCY ACTION DISMISSED

Court Holds Associated Telephone & Telegraph Co. Solvent.

CHICAGO, March 4.—Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday entered an order dismissing bankruptcy proceedings brought several weeks ago against the Associated Telephone & Telegraph Co., public utility holding concern having headquarters here and subsidiaries in several foreign countries.

The Judge's order upheld the company's contention that it was solvent. Company holdings were estimated at between $60,000,000 and $75,000,000.

QUADRANGLE CLUB DISBANDED, NOT THE THYRSUS SOCIETY

Wrong Washington University Organization Named in Post-Dispatch Headline.

A small headline in the Post-Dispatch yesterday erroneously stated "Frankie and Johnnie Barred, So Thyrsus Society Quits." It was the Quadrangle Club, associated with Thyrsus at Washington University, that decided to give no show this year and disband. Thyrsus is planning some theatrical entertainment to take the place of "Frankie and Johnnie."

The text of the item under the headline was correct. In part, it read: "Following the decision to abandon production of a burlesque on the ballad, 'Frankie and Johnnie,' with Thyrsus Dramatic Society and Men's Glee Club because of possible objections to its moral tone, Arthur More, president, announced yesterday that the Washington University Quadrangle Club would give no show this year and be automatically disbanded."

ST. LOUIS TOW SENT TO ILLINOIS

City Also Over Lakes-to-Gulf Route.

The first Chicago boat reached here and the first St. Louis tow started for Chicago today over the modernized Lakes to the Gulf waterway.

The first boat southward was the Chicago Tribune's Sea King, a motor cruiser, chartered to bear the first freight and the first passengers over the new route. The first northbound tow comprised a boat and two barges of the Illinois River Navigation Co., formed by Spencer A. Merrill to operate between St. Louis and Chicago.

Complimentary packages from St. Louis merchants for customers in Chicago and cities along the route were carried by the Merrill barges. Complimentary shipments carried from Chicago by the Sea King included packages for Famous & Barr, Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney, Procter & Gamble, Meyer Bros. Drug Co. and Dr. and Mrs. S. E. Newman, 6450 Cecil avenue.

Delegations representing the Chamber of Commerce, Mississippi Valley Association, Propeller Club, Federal and private barge lines and the Waterways Journal met the Sea King upon its arrival at the Eagle Packet Co. dock, foot of Vine street.

With Evans on the Sea King are George Schreiber, also of the Tribune staff, as navigator, and Capt. John Anderson. They left Chicago at 3 p. m. last Monday and, traveling in easy stages, reached Alton yesterday afternoon.

The $27,000,000 Illinois waterway to Chicago is the last link connecting Chicago and the Great Lakes, by way of St. Louis and the improved Lower Mississippi, with New Orleans, the Gulf of Mexico and ocean lines to the ports of the world. Though a multiplicity of bridges still constrains the section near Chicago, boats drawing nine feet of water may now travel from Pittsburgh to Chicago, as well as to New Orleans, with 6-foot channels complete to Minneapolis and St. Paul and nearing completion to Kansas City.

POST-DISPATCH SPORTS

PART TWO. ST. LOUIS, SATURDAY, MARCH 4, 1933. PAGES 1-4B

Street Here to Pilot Cardinals South; Garms Signs Browns Contract

By James M. Gould.

With Gabby Street, manager of the Cardinals, here, pilot Bill Killefer of the Browns on his way to camp and the first squads of both local big league clubs scheduled to depart tomorrow evening for Florida, baseball is beginning to edge basketball and other winter sports out of the general picture.

Contract No. 8 was received by the Browns yesterday when outfielder Debs Grams came through with a signed document. Catcher Benny Bengough officially has not signed but it is better than just a good guess that he will do so in time to depart for West Palm Beach tomorrow night either by train with the first squad or by motor.

Contracts Expected.

In fact, Vice President McEvoy has an idea that the next few days will see quite an increase in Brownie signed contracts. Right now, those of the players due to report at camp next Tuesday are the more important. All of the men concerned have been ordered to report and McEvoy is of the opinion that some will join up at Jacksonville, Fla. Monday night and that others will be on hand at the camp Tuesday morning to complete the formalities. It is probable that Rick Ferrell will not appear for some time and that Muddy Ruel and (probably) Benny Bengough will do the bulk of the practice catching.

Al Sothoron, Browns coach, has been in Florida for several weeks so he will be on hand to greet Manager Killefer on the red-faced one's arrival.

The Cardinals are forming a boys' band and the youngsters are scheduled to regale the cash customers on week-days when the Redbirds are playing at Sportsman's Park. If there's anything new in the baseball business, the Cardinals will start it.

Gray Is Ready.

Sam Gray, veteran Brownie pitcher, is all set to go and Jimmy Levey, shortstop, has received permission to depart with the first squad tomorrow. It is to be hoped no one in West Palm Beach offers Gray any lamb on the hotel menu as Sam admits that he's rather tired of it after a winter diet of sheep.

Bruce Campbell, destined according to observers to become a really great outfielder, will join the first squad on route from his home in Chicago, to make connections.

MRS. HURD 2 UP ON HELEN HICKS AFTER 18 HOLES IN BERMUDA GOLF

By the Associated Press.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, March 4.—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd of Philadelphia, former holder of both the British and United States women's golf championships, today led Helen Hicks of New York, former United States title holder, 2 up at the end of the first 18 holes of their 36-hole first round for the championship of Bermuda.

HILL-BINDA TEAM LEADS NEW YORK BIKE RACE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 4.—Norman Hill and his Italian partner, Binda, maintained their one lap lead over the field in the six-day bicycle race at 2 p. m. today, the 137th hour of the current grind at Madison Square Garden and only nine hours from the finish. The leaders had covered 2325 miles, 9 laps.

The field was closely bunched, however, with every team except the American combination of Freddie Spencer and Harry Horan within striking distance of the lead. Spencer and Horan were eight laps behind and apparently out of the running.

The Georgetti-Severgnini team, point leaders with 434, Martin Loncke, Lands-Thomas and Le-tourneur-Debaets were tied for second place one lap behind Hill-Binda.

NORTHWESTERN STAR SETS SWIM RECORD

By the Associated Press.

ANN ARBOR, Mich., March 4.—Oliver Horn, Northwestern University swimmer, clipped two and four tenths seconds off the national collegiate mark for the 200-yard breaststroke in a dual meet with Michigan last night. Horn was timed at 2 minutes 23.4 seconds. The old record of 2:31.4 was set by Johnny Schmitzer of Michigan in 1931.

Michigan, however, took five of the eight first places and won the meet, 43 to 22.

As the Stix Saw It
Referee Crompton must have thought he was a player; at least he booted one.

Reaching for the Moon—And the Billikens Made It!

ANDERSONS AND RIVALS WILL BATTLE ON MARCH 12

"Watch Your Step," Phone Caller Tells Soccer Commissioner

Winton E. Barker, local member of the United States Football Association's cup championship commission, today said that efforts to intimidate him with reference to the decision pending in the case of the protest of the Stix team, had been received over the telephone.

"At 1 o'clock this morning," said Barker, "our phone rang. My wife answered and told the caller I was asleep. You tell him to watch his step in the Anderson-Stix decision or something will happen to him."

"This is the third threat of the kind that I have received."

By Herman Weeks.

The National Challenge Cup Competition Committee of the United States Football Association today handed down a decision allowing the protest of the Stix club and ordering a replay of its Western semifinal with the Andersons. There are five members on the committee, which handed down the verdict, three representing the East and two the West. The vote was 4 to 1 in favor of a replay.

Following a two goals to one defeat at the hands of the Andersons last Sunday, the Stix management filed a protest, claiming that Referee Crompton of Chicago, misinterpreted the rules in disallowing a goal scored by Willie McLean, Stix outside left, with only three minutes of play remaining.

Stix Contention Approved.

Crompton ruled that two members of the Stix club were offside when the goal was kicked. The Stix contention, which was upheld by the committee, was that there could have been no offside on the play, claiming that Sam Ducker, Anderson "goalie" had last played the ball.

Under the laws of the game, the playing of the ball by an opponent automatically puts all attacking players onside.

In reaching its decision, the committee went through a supplementary report by the referees, a report filed by the line men, Ollie Pink and Irv Wimer, of this city, and United States Football Association delegates who were assigned to the match as well as members of the Stix management.

The date for the replay was set for March 12, the date originally set for the first match of the Western final against the Sparks club of Chicago. The same officials will be in charge except that a referee other than Crompton will be named.

Andersons May Forfeit.

Johnny Marre, manager of the Anderson eleven, when asked what his reaction to the decision of the committee, was said that it was a "shock" to him and that because of the attitude of some of his players, he was not certain whether he would be able to put a representative eleven on the field and might be forced to forfeit the match of the Stix Club.

"The ruling revering Referee Crompton was about the worst decision I recall in football," Marre told the Post-Dispatch. "The referee's whistle blew before the goal was scored and there was no ground for a protest. The referee was appointed by the proper authorities to handle the game and it weakens one respect for the game when an organization fails to maintain its referee's judgment."

Would Denote Reply Money.

The Anderson players are terribly disappointed. They have worked hard all year and received very little pay for their work. They felt that they had earned their way to the final and that they have been badly treated. However, I am going to appeal my boys before tomorrow's benefit game to forget it all and, for the good of the game, go through with the replay as ordered. Many of the players now feel like forfeiting.

"In order to avoid talk that the affair was all set up as a money proposition I am going to ask my players to contribute their share to the relief fund and we will try to take care of them in some other way."

The Stix management on the other hand was overjoyed and declared "that a better eleven would be on the field for the replay."

The referee to handle the replay will be named by the three Eastern members of the committee. Don Anderson, sponsor of the Anderson Club and president of the

Kansas Wins Its 11th Basket Title Under Coach Allen

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., March 4.—R. F. C. Allen achieved his eleventh basketball title for Kansas in 1933 when the Jayhawkers defeated Oklahoma 35 to 26 here last night.

He then returned in 1922 to K. U. His team tied Missouri for the title in 1922. In 1923, Kansas won 24 games and the championship. Allen teams repeated for titles in 1924 to 1928 inclusive. Oklahoma won in 1929 and Missouri in 1930, but Kansas has taken the honors the past three seasons. This year's five finished with an 8-2 record.

Londos Defeats Stecher; 16,800 See Title Match

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 4.—Jim Londos last night successfully defended his claim to the world heavyweight wrestling championship by tossing Joe Stecher, the veteran Nebraska scissor artist, in a one-fall match at the stadium before 16,800 spectators.

Jim weathered the scissors hold and, at 5:30 p. m. of the tussle, employed a body slam for the only fall.

The show, first undertaken by the Chicago Stadium Operating Company, drew a sale of $35,829. Londos weighed 200; Stecher 222.

BILKENS LOSE TO GRINNELL, SIXTH DEFEAT ON ROAD

GRINNELL BEATS BILKENS 12-10 IN HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

WRAYS COLUMN

Football Team Wins
The football team won their sixth straight game on the road, defeating Grinnell 12-10. The victory was a hard-fought one, with both teams showing great determination. The home team's defense was particularly strong, holding the visitors to a low score. The winning play came in the fourth quarter, when a long pass connected the quarterback with a wide receiver, setting up the game-winning touchdown.

Training Camp Highlights

The training camp has been a success, with many highlights. The players have shown great improvement in their skills, and the coaching staff has been very pleased with their progress. One of the key highlights was the team's performance in the final game of the camp, where they won by a comfortable margin. The players' dedication and hard work have been evident throughout the entire camp.

RARE EVENT IN AMERICAN HISTORY

In the 144 years since George Washington was inaugurated as the first President, but few mothers have lived to see the fulfillment of that highest of maternal ambitions, a son elected to the greatest office in the land. That unusual distinction today belongs to Mrs. James Roosevelt, whose son, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, today takes the oath of office as the 31st citizen to begin a new administration as the nation's chief executive. They are here shown together in photograph made this week.

ANCIENT LANDMARK FACING MODERN ARTILLERY

An interesting study of the Great Wall of China along the section which is now the battle ground of the present conflict between Chinese and Japanese troops. This shows the main road between Pekin and Jehol.

Even dreary hospital hours pass rapidly—and quietly—for these youngsters at City Hospital.

Between alarms, men of 17 Engine Co. and 22 Hook and Ladder Co., at Easton and Leonard avenues, get together over a difficult one.

LISTEN, WORLD!

by Elsie Robinson

Help Me Live Within the Present!

OD help me live within the present day. You know how hungry I am, dear, dim lanes. Of yesterday. It is so easy, God, to hide. So simple to just to close my eyes. And see the old house on the hill; the garden where I dreamed I long to stray. How desperately I try to hide away. Through rose-wreathed hours, and once again To hear my Mother's call, And feel the kindly pressure of my Father's hand.

So easy To flee back Through heartbreak years And touch, once more, That baby face, Those golden curls, The tiny, toddling feet That took the trail So bravely— Then lay still.

Dear God, The trail has been So empty Since those feet Lay still! That I've hated To go on.

Why go? Why face The lonely years, When one Can live forever By a grave, Numbered by the slow Sweet poisoning Of tears?

So easy—yes To hide, But, God, So shameful, too! For what of those Who have no house Upon a hill; No tangled garden Where a child may dream, But, by the millions, Live and die like rats Within the noisome reek Of city streets?

What of the other Little, bleeding feet That are as dear To some poor mother As my baby's were To me? Those little hands That reach in vain For bread, While I brood, blindly, By my cherished dead?

They are my duty, God— Those who today Are asking help, Or going mad with pain, Or fumbling Through the dreary Fog of fear.

Here is my place, Within this present time, Facing the problems Of this battle line!

Then help me, Father, Live within today; And let no lost delight, No treasured grief, Tempt me to turn And, like a coward, hide Within the selfish shade Of yesterday!

Amen.

by P. HAL SIMS

The first fourteen articles in this series by P. Hal Sims have been reprinted in an attractive booklet. This booklet will be sent without cost to anyone requesting it. Address P. Hal Sims, St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

P. Hal Sims is acclaimed the greatest contract and auction player. He is captain of the renowned "Four Horsemen" team of four, and has won 30 national championships since 1921. These articles are based on the Sims system, which includes the one-over-one principle which the Sims group of players was the first to employ and develop.

Slam Tries When Partner Has Opened With One No Trump.

YESTERDAY I discussed the bidding of this hand:

South: 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 A 2 2 2
North: K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 A 2 2 2

When partner has opened with one no trump, I explained why I would make the jump takeout of three hearts with the hand as given here, but if the club holding were changed to KJxx I would advise a first takeout of only two hearts, with the intention of initiating a slam try at a later stage of the bidding.

With the three positive primary tricks in the hand here shown, the slam should be reached. It must be a better than even chance even if the opener's hand lacks reserve values. Give him as little as K Q x x x C L A x x x.

I would gladly take my chance of losing only one trick in the diamond suit. Opponents have to lead by a grave, and after I have played out my clubs and hearts, will their discarding have been so perfect that they will avoid a squeeze or an end play? Why should I not deduce or even guess the location of the king and jack of diamonds?

Sometimes Your Partner Need Not Sign Off. I have assumed in the last few articles that the opening bidder denies possession of three aces, responding to the takeout with three trumps. If he should hold three aces, his response will be four no trumps—but the round of bidding thus lost will not be needed, as with four aces between you the case factor is under complete control, and the slam must be virtually certain. Risk of duplication varies when you hold a void, as the two losers in your KQxx suit will go on the ace of the suit and the ace of the void suit.

Again, when the responding hand holds two aces and can also make a jump suit takeout, the round of bidding lost by the second jump bid can well be spared, as the opening bidder now knows he has no reason to sign off unless he himself holds only one ace and his partner is such a minimum that he has a second trick may be lost in addition to the missing ace, although his partner has the requisite for a jump suit takeout.

For Tournament Play. I have described what I find the safest and most precise manner for bidding big hands of the types discussed from the point of view of reaching reasonable claims, stopping short of doubtful ones, and selecting the safer declaration when there is a choice. Of these three methods the last one applies somewhat differently in tournament play. For that reason you may observe tournament players handling the bidding slightly differently and sometimes soundness and safety for a higher trick score.

We try to play as many hands as we can in no trumps if we deduce the bidding that the same number of tricks will be lost in both no trumps and the best suit bid. Frequently in a tournament we will sign off at four no trumps when in a rubber game such a score would be unparadise, and the sign-off at game in a suit would be obligatory. This is a matter of match-play technique, which sometimes compels one to be unsound if one would reach out for a brilliant result. You are not less sacrificing a sure game for a doubtful slam or, greater crime, for a slam to grab five or fifteen points more per trick; you are abandoning acceptance of a tied score with, say, two-thirds of the bid for the hope of picking off a trick which only one or two other players are likely to share with you.

If you fail your resulting low score will be in good company, but more cautious players will not bid you by the measure between top and bottom. They will be bidding nearly all the match points available among themselves, and each of them will gain only a little on you. The only time when you will suffer the difference between top and bottom will be when another player ventures the bold bid that you did, but that the contract whereas you fail. If his success is due to better play on his part he deserves the advantage obtained. If it resulted from less skillful defense by his opponents, accept the result gracefully.

Monday—Slam tries over one no trump with a long suit.

Dear God, The trail has been So empty Since those feet Lay still! That I've hated To go on.

Why go? Why face The lonely years, When one Can live forever By a grave, Numbered by the slow Sweet poisoning Of tears?

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

by WYNN

For Sunday, March 5.
GOOD judgment is always all right; the trouble is in finding it on the occasions when we need it most. Today looks not so good for catching the right answer to our problems on the first try. Rest, relax; don't worry.

There was a time in the history of man when science and religion were the same thing; but these two branches of knowledge became separated long ago and both have tried to justify their existence without the other. It probably cannot be done; at least, we are rapidly returning to an appreciation of the necessity for causes behind forces and for physical symbols of all that is true on the spiritual plane. This will eventually bring us back to an understanding of the identity of science and religion as two manifestations of the same thing that lies beyond and is the cause of them both. The ancient priests held the knowledge of both these great divisions, and they also held the keys. These keys were left to us in various hidden ways.

Sons and daughters of this anniversary have before them a year during which they can make progress through their understanding of what the other fellow wants and is entitled to. Study everything from the angle of the party of the second part. Learn the lesson: To get you must first give. Keep emotions down till end of 1933. Danger Oct. 23 to 29; Feb. 18 to March 4, 1934.

For Monday, March 6.
A VERY good day for those who don't get tangled in their emotions, or those of others. Don't talk back; don't think with your ears; that is, don't listen to what you say and then wonder if it was the right thing. Think first.

The world has been going through a long period of many centuries during which man has studied and developed the use of forces. Many are of the opinion that this has been done only in recent years, in the period that has shown us the remarkable advance in transportation and communication. We have known since, say, 1875. But we must not forget the work and study of the Middle Ages when men were experimenting with chemistry and alchemy. It was then that gunpowder became a factor in shaping the destinies of nations. Right there is the key to one of our greatest natural symbols for gunpowder and its many allied developments, such as dynamite, TNT, and other explosives are all an index to man's misuse of his knowledge and power. More tomorrow.

Your Year Ahead.
Natives of this date should make plans for the coming 12 months that include improving relations with money and the people who have it. Make yourself more valuable to those in positions above you, whether you are a man in business or a woman seeking for social improvement. Don't let the emotions go. Avoid danger: Oct. 23 to 31, and Feb. 20 to March 5, 1934.

Combine right thinking with right acting. Otherwise a bit unreliable.

The HUSBAND CAMPAIGN

By Anne Gardner

CHAPTER TWELVE

IN THE off-lands Paul thought of Josephine, but realized that he would have had little time for correspondence, even had he won his desire to get an address from the girl, to which he could write.

The vast oil lands, which belonged to the Grafton company, were an absorbing world to him. Dressed in a stained khaki outfit—it had been spotted once, but had suffered in its first encounter with a well, and Paul had left it that way, finding the soiled suit a passport to easy relations with the men—he traveled about in a temperamental Ford, mingled with the crews, conferred with the foremen, and learned in a week more than his wearisome months in the New York office had taught him.

It was not usual to find a blond stubble on the once clean shaven jaws, and there were smudges on his face more often than not. These things and his genuine friendliness, lack of ostentation, and desire to learn, admitted him to a fellowship with the men at the wells which he had never enjoyed with his own class.

"I think you're going to see a sight, Mr. Grafton," the foreman at one of the fields told him, after Paul had introduced himself, asked his string of questions and made the usual request that he might poke about without having anyone but the foreman know of his identity. "We're just about to bring a well in. Want to stay and see it?"

Paul emphatically said, "No." He watched the preparations and maneuvering with the keenest interest, sharing the excitement of the crew as the great moment drew near. Suddenly there was a warning shout, a roar as of mighty winds, and the heavens and the earth were blackened by a volcano raining thick, black oil.

Every man rushed to help. But all that day, that night and all the next day the gusher poured forth its riches unchecked upon the landscape.

The frameworks were so slippery that men worked at their peril, and the crews could hardly recognize one another under their coatings of grease. Volunteers swarmed out to help with the battle, and visitors came from surrounding towns to see the tremendous sight, though keeping at a safe distance.

In this emergency the men in charge, sleepless, bearded, grumpy, had little time for nursing an officer of the company. That gave Paul an opportunity to do what he could, working with the crews. He was awkward and more often sworn at than thanked by men to whom everyone looked alike in the universal slime, but he had never been so happy.

It was thus that Old Grafton had started the company, which until now, had, to Paul, meant money and two floors of luxurious offices in the Imperial Tower. Here Paul felt the pulse of the great industry, a thing of crude oil and crude men—Oriental rugs and softly gleaming plate glass after all were a very trivial part of it—of primitive power. He saw immense caps made to bottle the well, tossed into the air by a giant hand, while the black geyser flowed more bounteously anything.

To have lighted a match anywhere in the vicinity would have been to invite lynching, for the fire peril was hideous.

Working, sweating, getting in the way, snatching ravenously at the coarse food, object of vigorous, lurid oaths, Paul made the final transition from the timid prince of the Tower to a man and a Grafton, worthy successor to Old Grafton.

It was a glorious culmination to the whole adventure that he should have been one of the crew which succeeded in capping the giant. They worked in a black inferno under a steady black rain, clutching at supports desperately now and again, inching the huge cork gradually into place.

Then the last lunge and a duck for cover, lest the cap should be thrown into the air and should drop on unwary flesh. But this time there was an end to pandemonium. The cork stayed and the giant beat upon it from beneath in vain.

Erewhile, weary and scarcely recognizable as men, the triumphant crew swung to the ground and Paul started for the place where he had left his Ford, out of reach of the oil.

His clothes were so stiff that they interfered with his walking, and his hairy grandmother herself would not have known that Paul Grafton's aristocratic features were beneath the coating of grease. He passed a car of onlookers.

"Good work, buddy!" called the driver. "You were one of the men on the derrick, weren't you? Must be all in. Like a drink and a lift to town?"

"Thanks awfully, but I believe not," Paul replied cheerfully, his cultured intentions coming stronger from all the grime and struggle. "I have a car around here somewhere. I hope, and I'll get to the hotel for a bath and clean up. But say, if you have a towel or any sort of rag in your car, it would be a relief to get some of this stuff off my face and hands."

Clean handkerchiefs and a dust cloth were tossed him by various occupants of the car, and questions were asked at him as he wiped away the black stuff, too busy to pay much attention to his interrogators. As Paul's face began to emerge, a man in the back seat leaned forward with an exclamation of surprise. "Are you Paul Grafton, by any chance?"

Paul looked up and the recognition was mutual. "Dal Crosby, in the name of the Great God Oil! What are you doing down here?"

"I've been in Oklahoma City on business, and came out here to see the fun. I didn't dream that one of the fellows hanging to that derrick would turn out to be a college classmate! We haven't met since we graduated, have we? And here I pick you out of a mass of crude oil! What are you doing here?"

"Learning about the oil business, starting from the top of a derrick!" laughed Paul. Crosby introduced him to the other men in the car, Oklahoma City business men. The excitement was uncontrollable when they learned that this oil-stained creature was the titular head of the great Grafton company.

"Wait until the newspaper boys hear this," exclaimed one. "Paul Grafton's here! Don't let it get out!" Paul implored. But while they promised, it was plain that flesh and blood would not be able to withstand the temptation to pass on so gorgeous a piece of news. Crosby introduced Paul to the field in charge, Dal, who had little time for nursing an officer of the company. That gave Paul an opportunity to do what he could, working with the crews. He was awkward and more often sworn at than thanked by men to whom everyone looked alike in the universal slime, but he had never been so happy.

The Charm of the Gay Printed Blouse

Girls who are spending their March evenings dreaming of their summer wardrobes, might look with imitation on this nonchalant lass who is now enjoying the warmth of Palm Beach. With a white silk blouse, she wears a red and white printed blouse and red of them will produce such a blouse as the girl in the photograph wears. These smart blouses of colored prints can be made without a pattern. The only cutting required is for the back neckline and armholes. The wide band on the under-the-arm-hole seams can be cut off and used for a belt or for trimming the hat.

Pattern for Sunflower Quilt

THE Sunflower Quilt makes a beautiful patchwork design when worked up in three shades of yellow. You will enjoy working this fascinating pattern, and it will make a lovely addition to your bedroom. When combined with walnut furniture, the shades of yellow give a very pleasing combination, and will add both warmth and charm to your room. Sunflower Quilt No. 179 can either be patchwork or applique. Full directions and a cutting guide for each piece, is included in the pattern.

We recommend the use of Quilting design No. QD415, and the quilting border No. 805 to complete this quilt.

A special combination, No. C175 of the book, patchwork pattern, quilting design and border pattern is given for 40c. Includes clipping or state number of pattern you desire.

Our Colonial Quilt Book of 22 pages, showing in beautiful colors some 200 designs, is available to readers. Any ONE patchwork pattern will be sent free with the book, which is 25 cents. Single patchwork, or stamped quilting patterns are 10 cents each, or three for 25c.

Include clipping of design wanted when ordering. Send letter and coin to St. Louis Post-Dispatch Needleart Department, 609 South Franklin St., Chicago, Ill.

they will understand such orders as: Head up, chin in, chest out, abdomen way in and pulled up, shoulders relaxed back a bit and down.

Posture Test. Take the young one over to the wall and ask her to stand up against it, heels a few inches away from the wall, shoulders, head and hips touching. Now slip your hand between the small of her back and the wall and help her to pull abdomen in and back, decreasing the space between the back and the wall. The spine should be practically a straight line. Now help daughter walk away from the wall in the same posture.

It's so easy to form the habit of proper posture in early years and to retain that habit as one grows older. And remember that good posture is synonymous with poise and personality and with a pleasant look. It's a big step toward grace, too. An economy measure to a great extent because $10 dresses look like a million on the woman who carries herself beautifully. Remember to tell daughter to walk with toes pointing straight ahead, because toeing out is awkward; to sit back with feet flat on the floor and abdomen pulled in. You'll be in for more blushing and dithering will have less reason to fear protruding abdomen and lordosis curves if you start teaching her proper posture very early in life.

Even when they are tota just beginning to toddle, help them to stand and walk properly. As they grow a little older tell them why they should pull up. Surprising how the youngest of them, particularly of the female species, responds to "you look prettier that way." That phrase is the sweetest story ever told to female ears and none too young or too old to welcome it.

DAILY STORY FOR CHILDREN

by Mary Graham Bonner

The Leader Mouse

"I SAID," continued Leader Mouse, "that the thing we needed to make people think the house haunted was a squeaky board, and you can find that in almost any house."

"Whenever anyone could be seen approaching the house (and some of us were always behind the window curtains to see) the rest of us stood on the creaking board and made as much noise as we could and added to this noise little squeaking sounds of our own voices."

"We were strange sounds could be heard faintly by passers-by."

"Was there anything about the shade that was down one day and up the next?" Willy Nilly asked.

"People so often let their imaginations run away with them that I didn't take much stock in that."

"True," agreed Leader Mouse, "but in this case we did pull up the shade at least one of the mice children swinging from it did so."

"But oh, how we mice did laugh as we saw people running by the house as quickly as they could."

"Maybe it wasn't nice of us to laugh, but people have set their cats on us and set traps for us, and so we enjoyed laughing at them."

And the mice now, at the very thought of how they had scared people and made them believe the house was haunted, sat up on their haunches and laughed so that their whiskers shook.

"At first we were fearful that you might have a cat with you; so we kept very quiet for awhile, but when we didn't hear any grating sounds when you all went to sleep we became bolder and bolder."

Leader Mouse said.

"But please play a little more music for us. We would gladly like to dance."

So the Puddle Muddle band played while the waiting mice waited.

When mud splatters on the suede shoes, get out the fine emery board from the manicure set and rub the spots gently with it. It will loosen them so they will brush off.

Author's Daughter

Opens Night Club

MUNICH, Germany. VIVACIOUS and gifted Erica Mann, daughter of the Nobel literature prize winner, Thomas Mann, has opened a sophisticated night-club here.

A sparkling-eyed brunette in her early twenties, she acts as announcer of an all-star cast, and that doesn't matter—not when producers believe the girls who write Clara's smart set.

Her dash of peppery humor, similar to that of her noted father, is as much an attraction as what the average cabaret habitue would call a "highbrow" program.

Fräulein Mann is chock-full of varied talents. She has won recognition on the stage, writes well, adapts plays and last year won a prize in a 6000-mile automobile race through Europe.

Her marriage to Gustav Grundgens, a Berlin film director, didn't turn out to be "the" adventure and there was a separation. So now she lives here with her parents and five sisters and brothers.

Dinner Party Menu With Chicken

By MRS. GLADYS T. LANG

Well-Known St. Louis Hostess

FOR several weeks we have featured poultry of all kinds and after all, chicken is apt to please the majority of your family and guests, so we will make it the main dish for this dinner. This meal will be suitable for entertaining as it will be quite elaborate. We will serve both a canape and a soup and end with a rather rich dessert.

Egg Canape. Shred lettuce and surround with slices of very fresh bread. Boil hard desired number of eggs. Cut in halves and carefully remove the yolks. Mash the yolks and mix with enough mayonnaise to make a paste, adding some chopped pickles, a few capers and season with salt, pepper, paprika and a little mustard. Spread thickly over bread slices. In the center place the egg whites filled with caviar, some lemon juice and top with a little finely minced onion. Trim with shredded green pepper. Over all pour some French dressing.

Vegetable Soup Without Stock. 1 1/2 cups of strained tomatoes. 1 1/2 cups of celery. 2 cups of potatoes. 1 onion. 2 carrots. 1 small turnip. 1 1/2 cups of butter. 1-3 cup of chopped parsley. Salt and pepper and one-half teaspoon of curry (optional). Chop all vegetables fine or put through the meat grinder and cook them in four tablespoons of butter for 10 minutes. Add one quart of boiling water. Cook slowly for one hour, then add one pint more of boiling water and three tablespoons of butter, seasoning and parsley.

Chicken Franchard. Cut two chickens in pieces as for smothering and place in a casserole with two large pieces of butter and allow to fry in this, turning frequently. Chop fine two tablespoons of parsley, two tablespoons of chives, one teaspoon of thyme, two teaspoons of tarragon and one clove of garlic. Sprinkle these over the chicken, then salt and pepper and two cups of sliced mushrooms that have been minced in mid vinegar for a few minutes. Dredge with two tablespoons of flour over all. Cover with good chicken stock or any soup stock to moisten well using about four cups. Cover well and cook in oven from two to two and a half hours, or until chicken is tender, according to size.

Potato Souffle. Three and one-half cups of sliced potatoes. One and one-half cups of bread crumbs.

Two tablespoons of butter. Three eggs. One tablespoon of onion juice. One tablespoon of salt. One teaspoon of sage. One tablespoon of chopped parsley.

Two teaspoons of baking powder. Two chicken livers. Pinch of pepper. Boil the potatoes in their jackets. Peel and rice while hot. When cold mix well with the rolled bread crumbs, eggs, onion juice, parsley, seasoning, melted butter, flour and baking powder. Mash the chicken livers and fry lightly in chicken fat. Place a little of the liver in the center of the dumplings formed of the potato mixture. The dumplings should be the size of a walnut. Roll in flour and cook in boiling salted water from 15 to 20 minutes in an open kettle. Try one dumpling; if it does not hold together add more flour. Some potatoes are more watery than others. The dumplings must be taken out of the water as soon as done. Sprinkle with browned bread crumbs and chopped parsley and serve very hot.

Cauliflower au Gratin. Soak a large head of cauliflower in cold salted water for 30 minutes; then cook in salted water until tender. Drain. Separate into flowerets and place in a baking dish and cover with this cheese sauce.

Cheddar Sauce. Melt three tablespoons of butter, add two tablespoons of flour, one and a half cups of milk and one cup of mild grated cheese. Season with salt and pepper. Cook as for cream sauce and pour over cauliflower. Set in oven and bake slowly until browned.

Golden Farfalle. Two-thirds cup of sugar. One-third cup of water. 5 egg yolks. One and one-half cups of heavy cream. One cup of candied fruit or macaroons.

Run flavoring. Chop the fruit or macaroons and cook in rum flavoring for several hours. Boil sugar and water for 10 minutes, then pour in a fine stream, beating constantly over the yolks of eggs which have been beaten very light. Put in a double boiler and cook, beating all the while until the mixture thickens. Have the cream whipped stiff, chill all thoroughly. Sprinkle some of the fruit in a quart mold, fold the egg mixture and the whipped cream together and the remaining fruit. Fill or the mold. Cover and pack in salt and ice for three or four hours.

Chilled Fenchon. Clean the fenchon in the bathroom with a good metal polish. Don't scrub it with them off with the cloth that has had scouring powder on it. The polish will preserve the fenchon, but the scrubber will harm the finish of the fenchon.

To Save Time. A whole dinner in one dish makes an inexpensive, time-saving meal, which suggests: Onion soup made with meat stock and served with toasted slices of bread and cheese; meat stock made with onion soup, such as dumplings; onion chowder with milk, potatoes, onion and salt pork.

MY Beauty Hint

By RAQUEL TORRES

RAQUEL TORRES

A DEQUATE exercise is the only treatment really needed by skin, and complexion.

I recommend not just strolling about a bit or playing a game of tennis now and then, but exercising strenuously and regularly.

Bending over and touching the floor with the hands, without bending the knees, serves as well as any other method of exercise.

HOLLYWOOD, March 3. CONSISTENCY has never been among the jewels that shine in Hollywood's crown.

Movie producers spend good money yearly in technical search, to be sure that their films contain no false notes in background or costume, no anachronisms, or anything that might threaten to interfere with romance they're apt to be deliberately inconsistent.

A ny movie primer will reveal, for instance, that in the very A B C's of Hollywood that only villains, old character actors, or gangsters may wear foliage-disguised countenances. Grandfather wasn't really a ray blade until he had managed at least six burns, but style change, and—beards are not romantic.

N O longer do you see lovely heroines emerge from a smog in the ocean as neatly marcelled and dry as when they went in. But in "White Sister" you may see Clark Gable leave six months' solitary confinement without the trace of a whisker on his chin.

One naturally assumes that a prisoner of war isn't accorded that barber service, but that doesn't matter—not when producers believe the girls who write Clark's fan mail might not care for a be-whiskered Gable.

T HEY did make an honest effort, Clark did put on a heavy beard, before he came forth to do the scene. But several co-workers lapsed into hysterics at the sight, and the director needed only a look to decide that realism wasn't worth the price.

The beard was removed, and he'll be up to the fans, if they care, to puzzle out how Gable stayed clean-shaven for six months.

This theory that beards may risk feminine patronage has afflicted even the hardy "Westerners," usually the paradise of beards.

E VERY actor has a different reason for being one. Herbert Mundin is very different.

The comedian of today was a mine-sweeper in the war. Inspection one morning was interrupted by the guffaws of the inspecting officer, who had paused before Mundin.

"Think you're funny, don't you?" the officer said after squinting his mirth.

"No, sir, not at all, sir," replied Mundin, at last.

"Then why make such funny faces?"

"Sorry, sir, but I was born with this face. And I don't know what I can do about it, sir."

T HAT ended the incident. But later, after the war, when Mundin was out of work, he recalled it.

"If I look funny enough to make people laugh," he decided, "maybe I can cash in on it."

So he began as a "second comedian" in a company playing to hold day crowds on a pier.

It was here, after Mundin became "head comedian," that the famous Charlot discovered him. He played in the reviews for seven years. Even so, he had a hard time getting a Hollywood start. Occasionally he won a small bit as a valet or a butler, but it was not until his comedy role in "Alimony" that he drew a contract. Since then he has played in a dozen pictures, his principal claim to recognition being his characterization in "Cavalcade."

B EHIND plans to co-star Mundin with another comedian, Frank Atkinson, in an unusual story—unusual for Hollywood.

Several months ago Mundin found Atkinson, an old musical comedy pal, vainly rapping at studio gates.

But Mundin one day was asked to write his own part in "Sherlock Holmes." Instead, he wrote two of his own and another. They liked it—but who could play the other role?

"I've got the very fellow in mind," said Herbert, producing Atkinson.

They went over big—so big that Frank is under contract, too.

One-Dish Dinner
To Save Time

A whole dinner in one dish makes an inexpensive, time-saving meal, says the Bureau of Home Economics, which suggests: Onion soup made with meat stock and served with toasted slices of bread and cheese; meat stew made with meat, a mixture of vegetables and meat, breadstuff, such as dumplings, or chowder with milk, potatoes, onion and salt pork.

Shining Faucets
Clean the faucets in the bathroom with a good metal polish. don't carelessly wipe them off with the cloth that has had scouring powder on it. The polish will preserve the faucets, but the scouring powder will harm the finish.

TODAY'S PATTERN

For Young Fashionables.
FROCK as winning and dashing as the one sketched today will bring many envious glances and a host of young fashionables. It really is the most delectable rig of the season with its simple seaming, clever collar and cuffs of contrast and very perky epaulettes to top everything. They may be omitted, though, as shown in small sketch. Sheer wool, novelty cottons or rough crepe may be used with equally good results.

Pattern 2556 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 2 1/2 yards 54-inch fabric and 3/4 yard 36-inch contrasting. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with pattern.

Send FIFTY CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for this pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

THE SPRING FASHION BOOK contains 32 colorful pages of lovely Paris-inspired models for every spring need. It shows how to be chic at every hour of the day. Every style is practical, and easy to make. There are models for the larger figure, and pages of delightful junior and kiddie styles. Love it, spring lingerie, and accessory patterns, too. SEND FOR YOUR COPY. PRICE OF CATALOGUE, FIFTY CENTS. CATALOGUE, AND PATTERN TOGETHER, TWENTY-FIVE CENTS. Address all mail orders to St. Louis Post-Dispatch Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth Street, New York City.

GREAT DAY

U. S. Treasury Department has ruled that rugs may be patterned after a $5 Federal Reserve note. There's an idea for currency inflation. Let the man who has $5 carry it rolled up under his arm.

And the moths would automatically take care of over-concentration of wealth.

With a duplicate I would paddle the gal who jabsbers "How, shoudleah."

BLACK OUT.

(Interview—Mayor Porter of Los Angeles) "One type of vice that we have had a specially difficult time with is that tied up with burlesque shows. In eight months we made 125 arrests and got only eleven convictions. So I decided the only thing to do was to bound them out of existence. Accordingly I told the head of the vice squad to have two or more of his men put their badges on the outside of their coats and go in and sit in those houses day and night, and when a law violation occurred to make an arrest. This they did, and one of the houses went so far as to hang up a sign out in front saying: "This house under police protection."

Says Genevieve, the kitchen cynic—"Give a woman an enough rope and she will cut loose."

OMIGOSH!

(Bloomington, Wis. Record) The reorganized Crawford county bank of Prairie du Chien, which is consolidating with the Bank of Prairie du Chien, has adopted the name of the Prairie City Bank.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Aunt Bella—What do you do for a husband who has been down with a fever for six weeks? Housewife.

Ans.—Put hatching eggs under the mattress. Aunt ("Practical") Bella.

Simile—Breathless as an amateur technician telling about that New Jersey rayon factory.

BULLETIN

"The Marxists have stolen the term 'Socialism' and confused its meaning. I shall take Socialism away from the Socialists."—Adolph Hitler.

I would harp. With the gal who says "Well, good-night."

Hear the countless thousands cheer, While Roosevelt grins from ear to ear! (Do you think he'll keep that grin When he finds the fix he's in?) Now in the martial music throbs (And stirs the thousands seeking jobs) Hear the tumult of the throng! (Or is that noise just Huey Long!)

Milestones on the path to candor: NEW YORK—Two Springfield (Mass.) heiresses announced today they will become brides in a double wedding in New York next Saturday and proceed to use their bridegrooms as subjects of a two-year study on human behaviorism.

Maybe Congressmen would be more willing to try balancing the budget if we'd let them work over a net.

Hard hitting couplets from Leo Quinn, a Salem, Mass., boy. Girls who give you a lot of sass Think that you ain't in their class.

Girls who give you the horse laugh Think they've got the only calf.

About the only girls that don't pet Are the little ones who ain't grown up yet.

The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 4.—Banking restrictions were in effect
every state tonight as financiers, economists and Government leaders laid plans to attempt to restore the United States financial situa-on to normal.

Delaware was the last state to declare a holiday effectively today and continuing until further notice.

Predictions gained strength in Washington that a special session of Congress would be called promptly to threaten the entire matter. Industrial and financial leaders expressed confidence that the national legislation would come from the emergency.

Reports also were current in Washington that Herbert Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt had discussed the possibility of a 5 per cent Federal guarantee of bank deposits.

Gov. Lehman indicated late today that he was awaiting an appointment of a Federal program before proceeding with any plan in this State. The holiday here scheduled to end at the close of business Monday.

Clearing House Certificates.
Mortimer N. Buckner, president of the New York Clearing House association, said that banks having membership in the organiza-on would use Clearing House certificates in lieu of currency to facilitate conduct of business. Buckner said the certificates would be ready Monday.

Such a medium of currency has not been used here since 1907. At that time $500,000,000 of such paper was in circulation. The certificates are paper based on bank deposits and in effect are currency jointly issued by a group of banks.

Although the restrictions pre-valued in 47 states and the District of Columbia, there were many communities—even in the state having banking holidays—where financial business was conducted as usual.

In only one instance was a bank reported closed by force. That was at Enid, Ok., where National Guardmen enforced Gov. William H. Murray's mandatory closing proclamation on the "First National. In North Dakota the suspension was accompanied by a temporary moratorium on all debtedness.

Stock Exchanges Closed.

The first thought of business general was to provide sufficient cash for payrolls and routine expense. Although nine-tenths of business normally is transacted by check—and checking was impossible everywhere—no cities reported serious curtailment in commerce and industrial activities.

The New York Stock Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade largest trading organizations respectively in securities and grain futures, were closed and so were smaller markets of the kind. Ed-stock and cash grain markets remained open, but transactions were at lower volume.

The average citizen's chief trouble appeared to lie in difficulty cashing paychecks. Stores generally extended credit more liberally for household necessities, but ever, and larger places gave out cash in accepting checks for payment of bills or making of paychecks.
